The Open Mind Center: A Place to Be, A Way to Be.

The Open Mind Center (“The Center”), www.theopenmindcenter.com, is about to become Georgia’s premier comprehensive holistic center. The inviting 6,800 square-foot Center that opens November 22 in Roswell, Georgia is proof that a desire for holistic learning and therapies has infiltrated every corner of America. The Center will offer classes and services in massage, personal and professional coaching, chakra balancing, nutritional analysis, meditation, energy work, dream interpretation, yoga, reflexology and more. It also houses a meditation room, gift and bookstore, and tearoom. The Center is home to some large museum-quality stones and statues designed to bring a sense of peace to the space.

“The Open Mind Center isn’t just about finding a place to relieve stress in your life; it is about learning how to eliminate it from your life,” says owner, Charmaine Taylor. Charmaine has spent years working to develop a place that would open its arms to everyone and help people enjoy life, accomplish their goals, find peace or just help them maintain a healthy lifestyle. “We want people to see The Center as a community of support where you can come and find answers, empowerment, rejuvenation and fun as you journey through life.”

The Open Mind Center is home to some unique collections of products, like the jewelry and candles of Tori Hartman (www.torihartman.com). Ms. Hartman chose The Open Mind Center to be the exclusive retail store to offer her products. “I’m honored to support The Open Mind Center with my products,” says Hartman. “Charmaine and I see eye-to-eye in empowering others to radiate their energies at higher frequencies for more fulfilling and joyful lives.”

With a grand opening celebration scheduled for Saturday, November 22, 2008, The Open Mind Center arrives just in time for the holiday season. It offers some interesting alternatives for gift shopping, like a certificate for a myriad of wellness therapies and classes or a holistic product or book that heals the body, nourishes the soul and awakens the spirit.
